Silver will be tarnished if left in the atmosphere and as you wear jewelry, it inevitably collects the accumulation of natural oils from your skin. Tarnishing will be accelerated if it comes into contact with perfume, moisturizer, self-tanning products, hairspray, chlorine, salt air, sulfur in the air, sea water, sweat, acidic skin ph, and sometimes can even be carried out with the help of medications that are excreted through the skin. Hot and humid conditions can also cause denigration. The amount of denigration (oxidation) depends on the skin and the wearer's grooming habits. Thus, tarnishing is not a production malfunction. The same care instructions apply to Swarovski pearls and items washed with gold and rose gold.
